

Health Care Cost Savings

TARGETED USE OF COMPLEMENTARY MEDICINES

A new economic report in Australia shows that taking specific complementary medicines (CM) can provide significant positive health outcomes and cost savings, by reducing hospitalisations and increasing productivity. The report looks at six complementary medicines regimens across four conditions in a targeted population of Australian adults who have the specific conditions or are at high risk for the disease.

Source: Targeted Use of Complementary Medicines: Potential Health Care Outcomes & Cost Savings in Australia – Frost & Sullivan.

Notes: *Hospital Separations, #Attributed deaths, †Successful Diagnostic Transitions.

©ASMI (Australian Self Medication Industry)